2015 COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT REPORT

c&s nourishing change
strengthening communities™

THE CLOSER WE LOOK, THE MORE WE SEE

A Closer Look is the theme of the 12th annual C&S Community Involvement Report. This theme was chosen carefully and offers the opportunity to examine what our company – and our associates – are doing to make a difference.

Within these pages are examples of doing the right thing and meeting challenges. Some of what you'll read shows how we take action locally to help people and causes in ways that are personal, with associates rolling up their sleeves as volunteers. There are also examples of how we donate to grassroots groups doing work every day to make our communities better and stronger.

Other sections in this report highlight how – and why – the company supports national nonprofit organizations that tackle important social issues affecting us all.

Either way, taking a closer look at something will often change how we see it. We hope that this report gives a perspective of C&S as a corporate citizen and how we demonstrate our values.

“THE TIME IS ALWAYS RIGHT TO DO WHAT’S RIGHT.”

ELIMINATING HUNGER

Putting food on America’s tables isn’t just our business. It’s also the cornerstone of our community involvement, and has been for years. C&S maintains strong partnerships with leading hunger organizations whose missions connect neighbors in need with food. The company is supporting food banks, community kitchens, school-based nutrition initiatives, and other innovative programs that improve lives by reducing hunger.

PROTECTING OUR ENVIRONMENT

C&S has an ongoing commitment to internal and external programs that promote a healthier environment. We continue to invest significant resources in technology to reduce energy use, sustainable business strategies, land conservation, and programs to offset our carbon emissions.

AT OUR CORE

Making a difference in today’s world requires more than passion and commitment; it also requires focus. In order to maximize social value, C&S focuses on four core areas.

STRENGTHENING COMMUNITIES AND CHILDREN

To change the world, sometimes you need to start close to home. At C&S, we believe in acting locally to make a positive difference in communities where we live and work. This also means focusing on the needs of children. Each year, C&S provides significant support to groups that promote strong communities, children’s health, and literacy.

VOLUNTEERING

Amazing things happen when people volunteer. Communities are revitalized, playgrounds get built, children are inspired to learn, and people find hope and meaning. At C&S, we are proud of our many employees who serve as volunteers in their communities, and we support them with programs that reward, recognize, and assist them in their efforts.

C&S: A FAMILY SERVING FAMILIES

It's been almost 100 years since my grandfather and a partner started a grocery supply business in Worcester, Massachusetts. I think my grandfather would be pleased – but not surprised – to see how his small company has grown over the years. That's because C&S Wholesale Grocers, our family of companies, and the people who work here adhere to his values of working hard, seeking opportunities, and welcoming innovation.

During 2015, C&S experienced some growth-related highs and lows. In the plus column, we purchased FreshKO Produce Services, Inc. of Fresno, CA. As their name suggests, FreshKO specializes in supplying fresh produce to 650 stores in central and northern California. The addition of FreshKO and its 142 employees is directly aligned with our company's commitment to expanding our fresh and organic produce business and our continued emphasis on servicing independent retailers. I look forward to welcoming the FreshKO employees to the C&S family.

In the negative column, C&S lost a large, long-time customer, A&P (the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company). In 2015, this iconic supermarket chain declared bankruptcy after 156 years.

In today's rapidly changing world and sometimes uncertain economy, it's not easy to stay ahead of the challenges in the food and logistics business. However, C&S and our family of companies thrive on change and challenges. I'm grateful for that and for the hard work and dedication of the men and women who work here.

As in years past, C&S continues to make a difference for people and causes that need a helping hand. We support a wide range of nonprofit organizations, charities, and community groups through grants, donations, and volunteerism. Hunger, childhood cancer, literacy, disaster relief, homeless veterans – these are just some of the many issues we're committed to.

On behalf of the C&S family of companies, I hope you enjoy this 12th annual edition of our Community Involvement Report and take a closer look at how we give back.

HUNGER: WE'RE STILL FIGHTING

Many people believe hunger isn't a serious problem or that it affects only a certain population or area of the country. In fact, hunger affects one in seven Americans – including more than 15 million children. The C&S family of companies and our employees are committed to providing food to meet the immediate needs of families who are struggling to feed their kids and to support initiatives that hold the hope of long-term solutions. We do this by continuing to partner with and support America's leading hunger organizations.

FEEDING AMERICA

Feeding America is a nationwide network of food banks that feeds more than 46 million people through food pantries, soup kitchens, and shelters in communities across America and leads the nation in the fight against hunger.

This year, C&S provided funding for a new Feeding America initiative, the Rural Child Hunger Capacity Institute. While there is a lot of attention on kids in cities who are facing hunger, there's been little focus on kids in small towns, villages, and remote areas who have a very different set of challenges. Participants in this first-of-its-kind, year-long initiative took a close look at the issue and will propose a series of recommendations for food banks and other organizations serving kids in rural places.

C&S also continued its support for Feeding America's Backpack Program, which helps hungry children by providing them with nutritious, child-friendly, easy-to-prepare food to take home on weekends and school vacations when other resources are not available.

NOT FORGOTTEN: Children in rural areas are often isolated from resources available to urban and suburban families. With funding from C&S, the Rural Child Hunger Capacity Institute is working on solutions.

NO KID HUNGRY

Share Our Strength's No Kid Hungry® campaign is helping to end childhood hunger by connecting kids in need to effective nutrition programs, like school breakfast and summer meals, and teaching families how to cook healthy, affordable meals.

C&S has been a strong supporter since 2008. This year, we helped on a few fronts: support for the No Kid Hungry Summit (which had more than 200 attendees from across the U.S.) and the "Hunger in Our Schools" report, which examines childhood hunger from the perspective of educators working with children from low-income families.

OFF TO A SUCCESSFUL START

A healthy breakfast doesn't just nourish the body. As one teacher notes in the Hunger in Our Schools report, when children start the school day with a good breakfast, "the light goes on" allowing them to focus, function, and learn.

NATIONAL HUNGER ACTION MONTH/HUNGER ACTION DAY

Each year, during Hunger Action Month, employees at the C&S family of companies generously rally around a company-wide drive to provide food for children.

THE CONGRESSIONAL HUNGER CENTER

Well-respected for its leadership training for young people, the Center has been supported by C&S since 2005, specifically in support of their U.S.-based work. Hundreds of the Center alumni are advancing the fight to end hunger through their work with food banks, advocacy groups, and government agencies.

FOODCORPS

In 2015, C&S added FoodCorps to its roster of national nonprofit organizations on the front lines of hunger prevention. FoodCorps and its energetic service members approach the issue in a different way: they help transform schools to make them healthier places for kids. From teaching children to plant, harvest, and eat fresh vegetables, to offering healthy cooking classes, to ensuring that locally-grown foods appear in school cafeterias, FoodCorps is dedicated to providing kids with better nutritional choices.

Our commitment to FoodCorps included:

- Funding for kids' knowledge of food and nutrition through books used in 550 schools in 16 states
- Sponsoring a service member in Connecticut who taught 259 hands-on education lessons to 1,353 kids
- Raising awareness about child hunger and related issues through the Victory Growers Award, an essay contest for service members.

HUNGER HEROES: This photo was taken on September 3, 2015— National Hunger Action Day. In the weeks that followed, C&S employees at 39 locations collected more than 28,400 pounds of food for struggling families in their communities.

A CLOSER LOOK: In 2015, C&S and our family of companies made significant contributions to help end hunger in America.

WITH HELP FROM A FOOD PANTRY, JULIE AND HER FAMILY WEATHER A DIFFICULT TIME

“Of my three kids, Hailey, 8, is the most sensitive to the fact that things have been tight for our family lately. Six months ago I was laid off from my job in college admissions right as my husband, John, went out of work on disability due to injuries from his construction job of 14 years. As our savings dwindled, Hailey watched me sort through a huge binder of all our utility bills, credit card and mortgage statements—methodically calling each company to see who could work with us. She saw the relief on my face when we learned of the food pantry; and she sees the gratitude I feel each month when volunteers load up our car with healthy food and fresh produce, knowing that with the pantry’s help, her dad and I will make sure that she, her brother and sister will always have enough to eat.

Most of all, I hope she can see that things are looking up for us; John just took a new job that will be easier on his body, and we’re getting slowly back on our feet. With our monthly relief from the food pantry, our family has been able to weather this difficult period together.”

BUILDING STRONG COMMUNITIES ONE VOLUNTEER AT A TIME

COME OUT AND PLAY!

Last July, more than 125 volunteers from C&S teamed up with leaders from Dr Pepper Snapple Group, Ahold USA and community members to build a unique playground at the Cedarcrest Center for Children with Disabilities in Keene, NH. In less than a day, they constructed a state-of-the-art, universally accessible playground that included swing sets, slides, garden boxes, an outdoor bowling alley, and special tactile equipment. The project was led by KaBOOM!, a national nonprofit whose mission is to help encourage children's physical activity by opening or improving community playgrounds.

UPLIFTING WORK

Ordinary people doing extraordinary things: that's the essence of volunteering. C&S employees give 100% on the job and in their communities.

VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR: DEAN D'ERRICO

Meet Dean D'Errico, our 2015 C&S Volunteer of the Year. Dean drives a 53-foot tractor trailer, making deliveries to C&S customers from the company's distribution center in Plant City, Florida – and he's a man whose heart is as big as his imagination. In addition to working full-time and driving over 100,000 miles a year, Dean founded a nonprofit group called Many Hands. Many Hands provides free or low-cost repairs for the cars and homes of low-income families, senior citizens, disabled individuals, and survivors of domestic abuse. The organization partners with local businesses and groups to create awareness and to provide discounted repair services when a project is beyond the scope of Many Hands.

CONGRATULATIONS TO DEAN - AND TO ALL VOLUNTEERS OF MANY HANDS!

CLOSE TO OUR HEARTS... AND HOMES

Communities grow stronger when people connect, support each other, and work together for positive change.

At C&S, we help strengthen our communities by focusing on the needs of families and children, especially in places where our employees live and work.

WE LIVE - AND GIVE - UNITED

United Way provides critical funding for thousands of local nonprofits and community organizations across America, touching millions of lives every day with programs that help children, youth, families, and seniors. At C&S, we are proud to be a Global Corporate Leader and longtime supporter of United Way. In 2015, through our workplace campaigns and corporate matching gifts, C&S raised a record amount of more than $2 million dollars for United Way.

Associates at two C&S distribution centers were recognized by our company for their United Way campaigns.

Our Bethlehem, PA location earned the Champions Award and the Excellence Award for most dollars pledged and highest participation rate. Associates at our Montgomery, AL location received the Spirit Award for creativity and enthusiasm.

“THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR BOOKS IN THE LIFE OF A CHILD.”

Mary Ellen Chase

WELL READ. WELL FED.

Illiteracy and hunger often go hand in hand. That's why, when it comes to children, C&S focuses on both. Through our partnership with First Book, C&S is working on feeding young bodies and minds. Since 2008, we've helped First Book provide more than 293,000 brand new books to disadvantaged children. In 2015, we distributed "first books" to young students at elementary and Head Start schools in Miami and Orlando, FL.

▲ THE JOY OF READING: C&S associates in Miami celebrate our donation of books to local school children.

GIVING 100% TO KIDS WITH CANCER

C&S is a longtime supporter of the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, one of the world's leading care and research centers devoted to kids with cancer.

TEERING UP FOR KIDS... TO THE TUNE OF $2 MILLION

This year, more than 12,000 families will get news that will shatter their worlds. Sadly, childhood cancer is still the leading cause of death by disease in children under 14. As heartbreaking as that statistic is, the good news is that cancer deaths in children are slowly declining, thanks to the work of dedicated doctors and researchers. That's a trend we'd like to see continue – and we're doing something about it.

Since 1985, our annual Tee Up for Kids golf outing has raised more than $12 million dollars to help children with cancer and their families. This year, Tee Up celebrated its 30th year and raised a record-breaking $2 million dollars for six nonprofit organizations dedicated to pediatric cancer and childhood hunger issues:

Children's Hospital at Dartmouth-Hitchcock

Lebanon, NH
$500,000 for the pediatric oncology unit

Hole in the Wall Gang Camp

Ashford, CT
$200,000 for camperships

Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and the Jimmy Fund

Boston, MA
$300,000 for pediatric cancer research

Feeding America

Chicago, IL

No Kid Hungry

We believe that the long-term success of our business requires a clean and healthy natural environment. Toward that aim, we are developing innovative business practices to reduce our environmental footprint, including investing in conservation, recycling, waste reduction, and technology to improve efficiencies.

Additionally, we are proud to support two leading organizations helping to protect our planet:

THE CONSERVATION FUND

Just one tree can absorb up to 48 pounds of carbon dioxide a year.* Imagine how much pollution can be trapped by 10,369 trees! Through our support of The Conservation Fund's "Go Zero" program, C&S has funded the planting of thousands of trees in national wildlife refuge lands.

STUDENT CONSERVATION ASSOCIATION

The Veterans Fire Corps was developed five years ago by the Student Conservation Association as a way to help post-9/11 U.S. military veterans develop marketable skills and expertise as they transition back into civilian life. As part of its objective, the Corps trains teams of vets in wildfire prevention, firefighting, and removal of combustible materials. Teams are then deployed in national forests, parks, and refuges. C&S is proud to help fund this program, which taps into the work ethic, team spirit, and energy of returning soldiers.

CLOSE TO HOME AND ACROSS THE WORLD, C&S CARES

RISING WATERS AND FLAMES: C&S REACHES OUT IN 2015, A YEAR OF EXTREME WEATHER IN MANY PARTS OF THE U.S.

Texas and South Carolina were especially hard hit, with hurricanes and flooding that cut off food, water, and power to thousands of people for days (or, in some cases, weeks). With warehouses and employees in both states, C&S quickly responded, sending truckloads of food and water to three food banks serving hungry families in disaster areas.

The Butte Wildfire in California was one of the worst and costliest fires in the state's history. It burned 73,700 acres, destroyed more than 585 homes, and claimed three lives. We provided 12 pallets of water when the local Red Cross and food bank needed it the most.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

Wars and natural disasters call for stepped-up responses, but the ongoing problems of disease and hunger should also inspire us to help.

Here are four global aid organizations worthy of your support:

- The World Food Programme
- Doctors Without Borders
- International Red Cross
- Oxfam

“FOR VILLAGES [IN NEPAL] CUT OFF FROM KATHMANDU BECAUSE OF DAMAGED ROADS, THE WORLD FOOD PROGRAMME IS FLYING HELICOPTERS FULL OF FOOD TO ENSURE DESPERATELY NEEDED NUTRITION REACHES THE MOST VULNERABLE SURVIVORS.”

Richard Leach, President & CEO, World Food Program USA

ACROSS THE WORLD

It was two minutes before noon on April 18, 2015, when a massive earthquake shook Nepal. Instantly buildings tumbled, killing thousands of people and trapping thousands more. On Mt. Everest and other peaks, the quake triggered avalanches that claimed even more lives.

Meanwhile, as a civil war raged in Syria, millions of families began fleeing the violence, giving up their jobs, homes, and ways of life in a desperate bid for safety.

In catastrophes like these, one thing is always certain: there will be a huge need for food and compassion. By donating to the United Nations World Food Programme, C&S helps provide nourishment and hope to people in the most dire need.

DOING MAXIMUM GOOD THROUGH MINI GRANTS

Small can be highly effective. That's why each year C&S awards hundreds of Mini Grants to nonprofits and charitable organizations in our communities. Most of these grants go to small, local nonprofits that fill an important need sometimes overlooked by larger organizations.

Here are just a few of the groups we were proud to support in 2015:

COASTAL CRISIS CHAPLAINCY
Charleston, SC

After a car accident, fire, natural disaster, or a crime, Charleston's first responders rush to the scene – no matter how dangerous or emotionally wrenching. In the aftermath, Coastal Crisis Chaplaincy is there to offer spiritual comfort and compassion. They also provide counseling to families directly impacted by the traumatic event, as well as to the families of the first responders themselves. In 2015, C&S provided a grant to assist the organization in its mission.

GLEANERS FOOD BANK
Indianapolis, IN

More than 85% of children who receive free or reduced-priced meals during the school year do not participate in summer meal programs. In Indianapolis, when school lets out, the Gleaners Food Bank swings into action. They partner with the city's Parks and Recreation Department to run a summer meals program at 128 sites. This year, the meals were ready to serve ... but there were no spoons! C&S stepped in with a donation of 150,336 spoons to make sure each site was well-stocked.

DIGNITY'S ALCOVE
Stockton, CA

Dignity's Alcove is an outreach program in northern California that focuses on assisting homeless veterans. The founders of the organization, once homeless vets themselves, were inspired to offer transitional housing, drug addiction and recovery support, and life skills training. C&S proudly provided support for their work.

CALIFORNIA RELEAF
Sacramento, CA

California ReLeaf believes that urban forests play an important role in reducing air pollution and making cities more liveable. For more than 25 years, they've been planting and caring for trees across the state. The organization also creates partnerships between community groups, businesses, and government agencies to encourage environmental programs and practices. A Mini Grant from C&S supported ReLeaf programs like Save Our Water and Our Trees.

CATHEDRAL ARTS PROJECT
Jacksonville, FL

The Cathedral Arts Project uses the power of imagination and creativity to enrich the lives of underserved, school-aged children in northeast Florida. The program serves more than 2,000 students who meet twice a week for instruction in dance, music, theatre, and the visual arts – all for free. A C&S Mini Grant helped the group continue their mission to energize, engage and empower their students to succeed.

MARTIN LIBRARY

York, PA

The number of students pursuing jobs in STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math) has decreased in recent years, and now America is facing a critical shortage of workers in those areas. Young women are particularly absent in STEM programs.

To address this trend, the Martin Library launched an innovative program called Empowering Girls Through Engineering. During National Engineering Week, teams of girls ages 7 to 18 worked with library staff to design and construct Little Free Libraries. The finished, mailbox-like libraries are now stocked with books and placed around the community. Borrowers are encouraged to take and leave books. C&S was proud to support this program.

PROJECT 351

Massachusetts

Each year, Project 351 identifies one 8th grade student from every city and town in Massachusetts to act as a service ambassador for the organization. These students convene on Launch & Service Day, which celebrates the legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Working together, they build leadership and teamwork skills by participating in a variety of community service projects that address social issues. They return to their communities ready to inspire others and address local challenges. C&S was proud to support the 2015 Launch & Service Day with an in-kind donation.

HOSPICE AND PALLIATIVE CARE

New Hartford, NY

Hospice and Palliative Care is dedicated to the compassionate care of people who are terminally ill. A C&S Mini Grant provided the organization with funds for general operating expenses.

HARRIS CENTER FOR CONSERVATION EDUCATION

Hancock, NH

The Harris Center promotes environmental protection and land conservation through workshops, exhibits, hikes, research, and educational programs that encourage understanding and respect for the natural world. A C&S Mini Grant provided funds for general operating expenses.
